stateboards.ie operates under the auspices of the Public Appointments Service and is committed to a policy of equal opportunity.

The Public Appointments Service (PAS), established under statute in 2004, provides an independent shared service in recruitment, assessment and selection to organisations across the Civil and Public Services. PAS also has responsibility for providing an open, accessible, rigorous and transparent system to support Ministers in making appointments to State Boards. Our dedicated website, www.stateboards.ie, is the channel through which the PAS advertises vacancies on State Boards. It is also the means through which accomplished, experienced and qualified people, including people who might not previously have been identified as available for appointment, can then apply to be considered for particular vacancies.

Membership of State Boards

High standards of corporate governance in all State Agencies, whether in the commercial or non-commercial sphere, are critical to ensuring a positive contribution to the State's overall social and economic development.

Members of State Boards are appointed to act on behalf of the citizen to oversee the running of the affairs of state bodies. State bodies must serve the interests of the taxpayer, pursue value for money in their endeavours (including managing risk appropriately), and act transparently as public entities. Members of State Boards, and the relevant management team, are accountable for the proper management of the organisation.

Board members should act on a fully informed basis, in good faith, with due diligence and care, and in the best interest of the State body, subject to the objectives set by Government. In that regard and in accordance with 13.2 of the Guidelines on Appointments to State Boards, "it is advisable that no member of a State Board should serve more than two full terms of appointment or should hold appointments to more than two State Boards."

The Code of Practice for the Governance of State Bodies 2016 (the Code) provides a framework for the application of best practice in corporate governance by both commercial and non-commercial State bodies.

In order to be an effective contributor on a State Board it is recommended that members should:

- bring independent and objective scrutiny to the oversight of the organisation;
- be prepared to be challenging when necessary while being supportive to the delivery of organisational strategy and objectives;
- be equipped to offer considered advice on the basis of sound judgement and experience;
- be prepared to make a time commitment to their work commensurate with their role.

1. Background

The National Cancer Registry is a publicly appointed body, established in 1991 to collect and classify information on all cancer cases which occur in Ireland. The Registry is administered by the National Cancer Registry Board and is funded by the Department of Health. The Registry's activities include:

- Collecting information on all new cases in Ireland
- Monitoring trends and outcomes in different cancer types
- Promoting the use of the information collected, in research and in the planning and management of services
- Publishing an annual report on cancer statistics.

Annual reports, with information on incidence, mortality, treatment and survival are produced. The Registry produces short reports annually on individual cancer sites, as well as joint reports with the Northern Ireland Cancer Registry. The Registry also publishes a large number of peer-reviewed scientific papers and abstracts. Its website (www.ncri.ie) provides an online data analysis service and a download of a subset of Registry data.

The Registry publishes a wide range of data on cancer care, conducts research in epidemiology, health services and patient-reported outcomes, as well as trends and outcomes in different cancer types. It promotes the use of the information collected in research and in the planning and management of services in conjunction with organisations such as the Department of Health, the HSE National Cancer Control Programme (NCCP), and the Health Research Board (HRB).

Cancer Registry data are essential elements in assessing population service needs and the configuration of any National Programme. The data are widely used in the cancer services for service planning. Survival rates and comparative analysis are also strong tools in the assessment of the success of cancer programmes.

2. Functions of the Board
